Shore Jigging: Shore jigging is a casting technique where anglers cast their jigs or lures from the shoreline into the water and then retrieve them with an up-and-down or jerking motion to imitate the movement of prey. It is a versatile technique used to target various saltwater species like tuna, amberjack, and snapper, among others.

Assist Hook: An assist hook is a specialized type of fishing hook often used in jigging. Instead of being directly attached to the lure, it is typically attached to a short length of cord or line, which is then secured to the jig. Assist hooks are designed to improve hooking and landing rates when fish strike the jig.
